THAT COBOURG ROW

Referring to the Guide's comments about the Cobourg autoists who caused a disturbance on Walton street last Sunday evening, the Cobourg World says .- .

Half an hour is certainly a long time to tolerate an open air concert on a Sunday evening and especially when given by Cobourg artists; but where was Port Hope's policeman all this time? Did it take him half hour to discover where the "music" was coming from?

Since we have learned that one Cobourg boy has been summoned to appear in the Port Hope Police Court on a charge of reckless driv-ing. The rest of the Cobourg bunch have evidently been overlooked by the Port Hope Police authorities.

The young man who was sum moned took no part in the disturb ance on the main street and evidently the ones guilty of this are to go unpunished.]

Sept. 25 .- The timely discovery, last Sunday morning, of a fire burn ing in one of the rooms in the third story of the Brunswick House prevented what might have been a disastrous conflagration. Behind a dresser was found burning a bunch of paper, light clothing, etc., and the fire-escape rope. A hole about 14 inches in diameter was burned throught the floor and ceiling underneath before it was extinguished. The occupant of the room, a woman employee, who it is said had been acting strangely and who at the time of the fire was unconcernedly partaking of her breakfast, was at once arrested by Chief Jamieson and brought before Reeve Dudley, who remanded her to Cobourg gaol until

C. N. R. FREIGHT SHEDS BURNED. Early Tuesday evening the freight sheds at the Colborne C. N. R. station were completely destroyed by fire. One of the road men of the company went to the shed with a lighted lantern to get gasoline and in some way the gas ignited. Soon the building was in flames, and knowing there were two or three tanks of gasoline in the building, people kept at a safe distance. There was also a quantity of cartridges which kept exploding at frequent intervals.

A quantity of freight was also burned, including a carload of flour for Todd & Simmons, and two cement machines belonging to Mr. F. A. Philip.

CITY TOOK OVER ELECTRIC PLANT

Peterboro, Sept. 24.—A special meeting of the City Fathers was held last night, when a by-law authorizing the taking over of the Peterboro Light and Power Company's distributing plant for public utilities purposes, better known as municipal hydro-electric.

The Mayor, City Engineer Parsons, Street Commissioners Evans and Fitzgerald, and City Solicitor G. N. Gordon were named the officials to take possession of the company's plant, and remove same to wherever directed by the Mayor of Peterboro.

Robert A. Ross, of Montreal, was appointed an arbitrator for the city to fix the sum to be paid the Peterboro Light and Power Company for the expropriation of their property.

As a result of a clever conspiracy to "hold down" their jobs, two C. P. R. special constables, who have been guarding bridges and tracks east of Leaside, lost their positions recently. The C. P. case was enlarged to the spring assizes to allow the defence time in which to secure additional evidence which T. C. Robinette, K.C., calculates will clear the physician of blame in connection with the young woman's death.

It is authoritatively stated that the defence next spring will be that Dr. Robinson did not know the woman's body was buried in his cellar, and as proof it will be pointed out that the severing of the limbs from the trunk was undoubtedly the work of an amateur and not of a practiced physician.
It is expected that another sensational arrest will be made in connection with this case as a result of some new evidence secured by the Admiral Wemyss, commander of a fleet of British battleships, cruisers, other craft, came to the camp yesterday and was in conference with the Minister of Militia with reference to convoying the troopships which will carry the Canadian expedition-ary force to England. It was said that the British fleet consists of 20 ships. The route to England is absolutely clear and there is no possible danger of interference by German cruisers. Any of the enemy's ships that may be in the Atlantic are bot-tled up along the seaboard.

REID-AULL ACTION IS

a Matrimonial Court. Holds Judge

"The action must be forever stayed," decides Mr Justice Middleton, upholding the Attorney-General's contention that the Supreme Court of Ontario has no jurisdiction to entertain Doris Reid's action to invalidate her marriage to Robert Aull, jr., of St. Louis.

Aull and Miss Reid, the latter of Toronto, were married in Cobourg on July 25th, 1913. Then, on her behalf, her father sued to declare the ceremony void on the grounds of deceit, fraud, and wrongful influence.

The Attorney-General intervened at Osgoode Hall, Mr Justice Middleton holding he had a right to do so. In giving judgment, Mr Justice Middleton says:

"Mr Watson cited a great many cases. In these the Common Law Courts or the Court of Chancery, for the purpose of determining a matter properly betore them, were called upon to determine the validity of a marriage. This, clearly, affords no foundation for the bringing of an action such as this. If a man is indicted for bigamy, the court must determine the fact of marriage. If a widewer sues for dower, her marriage must be ascertained, but nowhere, save in Lawless v. Chamberlain, is there any precedent for the beginning of such an action as this, except in the Ecclesiastical Courts or other Court given matrimonial jurisdiction."

CRIMINAL WASTE OF APPLES

The criminal waste of apples in the country at the same time that many are suffering from lack of food in the cities, is another unanswerable argument in favor of government ownership and control of transportation systems. The Toronto Globe urges that "there should be an effort also to increase the home consumption." To get them from the orchards to the consumers, or CHAIRMAN OF SCHOOL BOARD those who would gladly be consumers were not the price prohibitive, would be all the effort necessary.

Right here in Durham County, where the apple crop is reported as only fair, the fruit has fallen from the trees in a great many orchards and has been allowed to remain on the ground. If the apples had only been gathered in, they would prove a blessing to many who will suffer, and are now suffering from lack of

A NEW DAY IN WAR

We had to rub our eyes Supreme Court of Ontario Not when we read it, and rub them again to be sure that we did not read amiss. Lord Kitchener, the British Minister of War, the man of iron and of blood, was counselling the soldiers going to the front to fight the battles of the Empire, and here was the sentence that met us right in the middle of his address: "You can do your own country no better service than in showing yourself in France and Belgium in the true character of a British soldier by being invariably courteous, considerate and kind." Dees history record any soldier, in the long story of fighting, ever having received such an admonition from his great commander-in-chief? If so, we do not know of it. And. though fighting in Belgium and France is hard and bloody and brutal, somehow we feel that that advice points to the coming of a new day. To make friends, other countries have made concessions; and every concession, every friendship, has made stiff, unyielding Germany furious. ### COUNCIL MUST DECIDE

If Toronto's city council votes 'yes" to-day, every one of the 2500 men from here now enlisted for service overseas will be insured for $1000. Late yesterday Controller McCarthy met the patriotic fund finance committee and this plan will come before the council today for ratification.

Each policy for $1000 will cost Toronto $42 for one year, thus the total cost to the city will be $100,ooo for one year.

Queries have come from Valcartier, especially from married men, asking if the insurance plan is dead. When the men enlisted it seemed ish all who may be exposed to wind sure them.

All depends on how the council votes to-day .- Toronto World.

The "Weed" Goes Up.

Smokes of all descriptions will cost more than formerly by the order sent out by the wholesale tobacco merchants. The advance in the price of raw tobacco has been added to the war tax and tobacco in-all forms will become a luxury. Cut tobacco, ten cents a package, holding one-elventh of a pound, will be changed to a one-twelfth of a pound. This is an increase in the cost of about ten per cent. Cigarettes will cost the retail merchant from 30c to 60c a thousand more. Cigars made in Canada have advanced in the wholesale price from $1 to $2.50 a thousand, and the imported cigars even more.

Forecasts for October

By Irl R. Hicks

A regular storm period is central on the 4th, extending from the 2nd to the 7th. This period lies at the centre of the Venus period, with Moon on the equator on the 2nd, and full Moon on the 3rd. The influence of Earth's autumnal equinox is still in force, which fact will intensify storm and weather conditions until after the middle of October. ! We are by no meaes out of danger from equinoctial storms, because we have passed the date in September when such disturbances are erroneously supposed by some to have ended. This period, the 2nd to 8th, is one in which violent storms of the West India and equatorial type need not surprise any reader of these forecasts. Those who habitually study the barometer, hygrometer and thermometer, and keep an eye on the wind and cloud and sky, will know for days in advance whether storms of threatening character are brewing. We would especially warn those whose interests lie on and about the great northern lakes of probable elemental violence during the period. reterence to the atrocities which are A very early dash of snow over the alleged to have been committed, northwest is entirely probable along showing, if true, that the brute in the line of barometric shifting from man is not far buried-but to the low to high. A reactionary storm period is central on the oth and 10th and 11th. On and touching these days it will turn warmer, the barometer will fall, and autumnal storms of rain and wind, with possible dashes of snow to the north and west, will run their regular course across the country from west to east. What are officially called "anti-cyclonic" conditions, that is, a high barometer, with colder, westerly winds, will press against and follow the storms, pushing them eastward and filling their place with progressively clear, colder weather for two or three

A regular storm period covers the 14th to the 19th, having its centre on the 15th. The Moon is on the equator on the 16th, and owing to this fact, falling barometer and change to much warmer will likely breed autumnal thunder storms on and about this day. The Moon being at new and in perigree on the 19th, it is probable that storms and threatening weather will continue up to that date, and possibly over into the reactionary period which follows immediately. The storm diagram indicates that the Venus period ends, and the Mercury period begins on the 19th. We may reasonably conclude that they will prolong and intensity each other's influence at this time, greatly aug-menting the possibility of severe storms and weather changes.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 20th, 21st and 22nd. As stated above, these last two periods threaten to unite and give us a prolonged spell of threatening weather, with many local outbursts of severe, autumnal storms. Watch local conditions, and read The flour that makes the sweetest reports from other sections and see if severe sleet and ice coatings do not result before the present Mercury period comes to its close in November. High barometer and much colder weather will pass about the 22nd to 25th. A regular storm period covers the last week in October, being central on the 27th, almost coincident with the centre of the Mercury period. At the entrance of this period a low barometer will develop in western parts, inducing warmer, esterly and southerly winds, autumnal rains will start eastward, and during about the 27th to 30th, these storms preceded by falling barometer, will pass eastwardly across the country, have been fired in practice.

OUR STORY

"She wanted me to take a letter to the post-office, sir, and see if it would go out soon. I was telling her I was just in time to get it in the out-going mail."

"John," said Max Forrester, speaking with difficulty, "you have been in the family long years, or I should not ask you the question I now ask; but I expect a straightforward answer. Did you see to whom that letter was addressed and where it was going?"

"I could not help but notice, sir, the man answered, respectfully. "It was addressed to the gentleman who just left here-Mr Arthur Hurlhurst, New York City. I cannot remember the street and number.'

He saw Max Forrester's face turn white as death as he wheeled about and strode down the corridor toward his wife's apartments.

"Heaven help me! I hope I haven't said anything wrong,' thought the old servant, in dismay. "There is a look on his face I don't like. Can there be any trouble between the young master and his bride, I wonder? Her eyes were swollen as though she had been weeping. I am afraid there is something wrong.

Max Forrester passed on with hurried tootsteps to his wife's boudoir, and in answer to his impatient wrap there was a faint-

Had he come to make friends with her-to take her in his arms and kiss away her tears, whispering that no shadow should ever come between them?

But no. He strode up to her, seizing her white wrist with angry vehemence-with a force that would have shamed him if he had realized

"Florabel!" he cried, hoarsely, "how dared you write to Hurlhurst? What was in that letter?"

She started back, quivering like a leaf. Then like a hunted fawn driven at bay, she faced him.

The husband and wife looked at each other. Anger, temper, pride shot out from "eyes that had once looked love to eves that spake again.

"You are silent!" he cried. "Answer me! I will get at the depths of this matter. Did you write him of that little scene down in the drawing-room?"

"Yes!" answered the poor child, innocently.

He had taken her so much by sur-might have warned her, but it did

"No," she replied, faintly; "I cannot. At that instant the blotter on her

This was all that was legible, but it was quite enough. Max Forrester turned to her with a bitter cry, his face fairly livid with passion.

"No need for me to ask what this man is to you, after such a proof as this!" he cried hoarsely. "Now listen to what I have to say. Tonight-aye, this hour-I leave you forever. I pray Heaven I may never look on your fair, false face again !"

Ere she could call out to him, he was gone.

CHAPTER XIV.

FLORABEL'S FOLLY.

A moment later she heard the swift galloping of a horse going down the chestnut drive. Every clatter of the iron hoofs struck a death knell to her heart.

No cry came from her white, closed lips that looked as though they would never open again; no statute, the wisest step he had ever taken. carved from stone or marble, was No, no, she could never endure that. ever more silent or motioaless.

and blind under this great stroke of mortal anguish.

She was trying to realize that he had gone from her; that of his own free will he had left her - the lover who had wooed and wedded her; that she should never look upon his face again. It was utterly impossible-utterly absurd. She heard the sound of a wild laugh, and was startled by it, not knowing that it was her own.

He had gone out of her life forever, to return no more, and he her own husband-given to her before Heaven and man - how could he have left her forever?

Gradually the mist clears from her brain; her thoughts grow distinct, and she realizes the full horror of the awful sorrow that has fallen upon her.

There must have been a sense of something wrong in the household, for when John reached the servants' hall and saw Gregory, the maid, he said, hurriedly:

"I do not like the looks of matters about young master's apartments. It is a dreadful thing to say, but I am almost afraid that he has quarrelled with his young bride, I heard loud and angry words from their boudoir a little while since, then he rode away from the house like one mad. Make some excuse to go and speak to her. She will have little enough sympathy from his mother or Miss Clavering, poor thing! They have been trying to set him against her since he brought her here. It's a poor place for a bride in a mother-in-law's house."

"I will go to her at once," said Gregory, with her kindly face full of sympathy. The hurried though the long marble corridors to Florabel's room. The door was ajar. She pushed it open and entered. Gregory was startled at the ghastly face turned toward her. "Oh, my dear young lady, you are in trouble!" she cried, hastening toward her. Florabel looked up with startled

"Yes I am in great trouble, Gregory," she said. "I may tell you-the whole world will know it soonmy husband has left me!"

As she uttered these words her lips quivered and the hot, bitter tears fell like rain down her face. "Left you!" echoed Gregory. "Oh, surely you do not mean it, ma'am. He has not left you for good. No man in his right senses could have done that."

"It is quite true, Gregory," she answered, and her voice sounded like nothing human. "He has gone never to return."

"Oh, poor child!" and the woman paused; her horror was too great for words. "Peor child!" she gasped, "what shall you do? and you loved him so well."

"That is it, Gregory," she answered, piteously. "What shall I do? -I have heard of such things, but hardly thought they were real. Oh, Gregory, what do other wives do when their husbands forsake them? I - I never thought what to me.

And the hapless girl turned in her agony to the older woman, who had seen and knew more of life.

"Are you quite sure there is no mistake?" said Gregory. "It seems so impossible." "It is quite true," faltored Flora-bel, tears still falling like rain down her pale cheeks. "Then, poor child, you ought to send for relatives at once." She never understood why Flo a bel drew back, looking so white and scared. "I cannot stay here, Gregory," she sobbed. "I will go away. Think of the bitter anger and reproaches his mother and Miss Clavering would cast upon me if I were to stay here. They have made life bitter enough for me already."

"If you would but stay here, and not mind them, I am sure he would come back when his anger had time to cool. Most men are hasty. They always repent." "He will never come back," wailed Florabel. "He said so. He left me with almost a curse on his lips," she cried, wringing her hands. "No, no, Gregory, I will not stay here. I am going away. You must help me to get my things ready. I am going to New York by the midnight express."

In vain the maid pleaded. Florabel was firm. His mother and Miss Clavering should not gloat over her terrible misfortune to her face, telling her they were right glad Max had left her at last, and that it was it carried with it poor Florabel, She had left a note pinned to the cushion on her table. They would and it on the morrow, and that would explain all.

As for Max, he had parted from Florabel in such bitter anger he hardly knew what he was saying. An hour's hard riding cooled his fevered brain.

"Had he been too hasty?" he asked himself. "Would it have been better and wiser to plead with his young wife to clear up the mystery, than to command her?" She was a spirited little thing;

he remembered that she always rebelled against coercion. He would not ruin two lives by being too hasty. He would temporize with her. He turned his horse's head about, and rode slowly back through the dewy tragrance of the night. Those notes might have meant nothing which Hurlhurst had slipped into Florabel's hand; perhaps the name of some piece of music, or a new book, and that meeting in the rose-arbor might have been accidental, after all. He would not believe the fellow was anything to Florabel; that might have been an ingenious manner she had adopted to test his love for her, to allow him to imag-

It was a great concession for a man of his proud nature to maketo return, once more, and plead with her, for the old love's sake, to set the matter straight that was drifting them apart. If it was a lesson to cure him from flirting with Inez Clavering, he woud heed and profit by it. Young and foolish wives had been known to try such experiments, to see if their liege lord's love had waned.

He almost smiled as he entered the gates. There was a faint light in Florabel's room. She was expecting him to return, he told himself; all the rest of the house was dark as the tomb.

The hour was so late, he put up his horse without disturbing the groom; then hurried into the house, and no warning came to him of the blow that awaited him when he should reach his wife's boudoir.

He tapped lightly, but, assuring nimself she did not hear, he entered unceremoniously.

She was not losing her beauty-sleep, by sitting up waiting for him -that was evident.

So many pretty little trifles, reminding him of Florabel, lay strewn about. He saw her jewel-case, with the lid open, lying on the marble mantel. Ah! that was very careless of Florabel, indeed, to lay her jewels about like this. He must speak to those wives did - never dreaming her about like this. He must speak that such a thing could ever happen to her about it. Of course, the servants were all very honest, still it was best not to tempt them like this.

He closed the lid on the sparkling gems, and carried them in his hand toward the inner apartment.

"Florabel," he said, gently thrusting aside the pale blue plush portieres, hesitatingly, with his white hand. "Florabel, my darling!"

There was no answer. The stillness that reigned was oppressive. No golden-haired little creature sprang forward to meet him, flinging herself, with sobs, into his outstretched arms, crying out how unhappy she was, because they had quarreled. Where was Florabel?

CHAPTER XV.

"I WILL KEEP THEM APART FOREVER."

Max Forrester stood quite still in the boudoir and glanced uneasly about him.

As his eye roved past the centretable near him, he saw a letter lying on it, addressed to himselt. At the first glance he had recognized Florabel's delicate chirography. What coald that mean?

Then there came to him the conviction that there was some terrible sorrow in store for him. He turned the gas jet, and, sinking down in the nearest seat, tore the envelope open.

As he read, great drops of moisture gathered on his forehead; the wavering words seemed to be hidden beneath a blood-red mist.

There were but a few lines, which read as follows:

"I'm looking to see what you got that's worth selling to pay my bill," she answered boldly and defiantly, "and all that I can find is a cuff but-"Now, then, Miss," she exclaim- ton-a man's cuff button at that." "I shall be glad if you would do so," replied Florabel. "I will pay what you think is right for it."

She was mentally calculating how long the remaining fitty-dollar bill would last, which she saw in her hand, and how long it would be prudent to be pleasant with her. That was the first real glimpse

AN AMERICAN SOCIALIST'S TRIBUTE

An American Socialist, Mr. Charles Edward Russell, has addressed the following letter to Mr. H. M. Hyndman, the Chairman of the Socialist Party in Great Britain. The letter was written at the Hague and dated August 23rd:-

Dear Comrade Hyndman-I was delighted to have your most kind, fraternal letter, and to see that your clear perception of things was not astray about the present situation. I should have known it. Some of the comrades seem to be strangely muddled. The cause of Socialism. as well as the cause of political democracy, good faith, national honor, morality, and everything else that decent men care for, is at stake in this horrible conflict. If the principle should once be established that big nations should have no obligations to respect their solemn guarantees to small nations, there would come such a flood of reaction and of the supremacy of mere brute strength as would overwhelm us for years. Socialism is true, right and moral; it can have no tolerance of international brigandage such as Germany practiced on Belgium. If nations may violate faith shall individuals be any better?

I am not fond of the Government of Great Britain, but I confess that. I do not see in the main, how it could have done otherwise. Let any doubter read the correspondence; that seems to me conclusive. I acknowledge also, that in times gone by I have been in error about the British armament. If it were not for the British Navy, to-day we should be at the mercy of the bandits of Berlin, and civilization would go backward four hundred years, and between us and a catastrophe beyond description. So long as we have the conditions that produced this war we must remember that a part of these conditions is the necessity of being prepared to repel the as- $5.00 costs. saults of capitalistic savagery. news that almost makes us doubt. Still, it cannot be that the world is to be overshadowed by a cloud so dark. But these are sadly trying times. I cling to the hope that before we are through with this ordeal men will become so utterly sick of slaughter that they will be willing to consider the source of war and ready to eliminate it for ever.

CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL.

WORTHY OF EMULATION

A recent issue of the Hamilton Herald contained a letter received by a firm in that city from an old country business house. The firm displays the same dogged determination and go-at-itiveness that characterizes the British soldier on the firing line. The business spirit desplayed is worthy of emulation by many Canadian firms.

The letter is as follows:-

"Notwithstanding the great upheaval and dislocation of business in general," this firm writes, "we are keeping the flag flying and working full time in our factory, busily making Christmas cards towards the demand which will undoubtedly arrive for British-made goods. Should you be disappointed by non-delivery of cards of German manufacture, we beg to advise that we are in a position to execute any further orders A hundred thousand fighting men on receipt.... #### THE BATTLE OF LIEGE

BY DANA BURNET

The defense of Liege, according to the reports sent out by the Belgian Government, was skilful and brave. It was this gallant defense that inspired Stephen Phillips's poem. It has also been the subject of some good American verse. Among the best is the following spirited ballad, which appeared in the New York Evening Sun. Whether or not Mr. Burnet's narrative is historically correct is after all a small matter; people no longer get their history from the poets.

Now spake the Emperor to all his shining battle forces, To the Lancers and the Rifles, to the Gunners and the Horses:

And his pride surged up within him as he saw their banners stream! 'Tis a twelve-day march to Paris, by the road our fathers traveled,

To the jeweled streets of Paris-To the lovely woman, Paris, that has driven me to dream

With their flaming swords drawn free

They went up to their desire, With their naked brands outdrawn Crawling higher-higher-higher

Like a sudden wasted tide, And the thunder in their faces beat them down and flung them wide!

BURNED TO DEATH

Trafic Happening on Mohawk Reserve, Deseronto

Decronto, Sept. 2Sth .- A heavy gloon was cast over the Mohawk reseve and surrounding vicinity yesteday when it was learned that Waler Brant and his wife had been burnd to death at their home on the Maryville road. The origin of the fire is and always will be a mystery, as tie occupants of the house were undoubtedly burned in their beds. The fire was discovered by Francis John shortly after twelve o'clock yesterday morning as he was that time the kitchen and the bedroom over it, which was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Brant, were a mass of flames, and although help was soon summoned, nothing could be done to save either the inmates or the property.

This morning the charred bodies were found lying about eighty feet apart amongst the ashes.

Brant, who was a councillor, was the band, and owned a good property of about one hundred and fifty acres and a substantial frame house

THE DEAD PREMIER

Ontario was plunged in grief on Friday, when the intelligence was conveyed of the death of Sir James Whitney, Provincial Premier. In his passing Canada loses a statesman whose strong characteristics were his honesty, fearlessness and independence. He was a strenuous fighter in the defence of his political convictions, and did not spare his opponents, yet withal he was gracious and courteous in his bearing towards all. He has left behind him no resentments, and no enmity; nothing but a gracious memory for a striking personality-the memory of one who served with an honest and unstinted measure of devotion his province and his party. Those who knew him—and they were legion, in all schools of opinion, in all ranks and walks of life-when they recall his labors in the interests of his beloved province, will say to "This is the happy warrior, this is he whom every man in arms should wish to be."

J Ross Tuttle, M. A., Tweed, a graduate of Queen's studying in Germany, writes as follows to his home paper:

"On Friday, Aug 4th, about mid-night word was received of England's declaration of war and before going home trom Deseronto. At morning most of the British subjects had been arrested and put in jail. The imprisoned included no Englishmen as they had left the country before mobilization, but were composed of Canadians, South Africans and Indians, I learned the news at breakfast in the morning when my landlady excitedly advised me to report at once to the police as she did not want an occurrence similar to that with the Russian of one of the best known members of the preceding week. However, I decided to do something and to my surprise the police did not come that day or the following and I continued to go down town as usual with the result I supposed that everyone thought, I must be an American. How I was missed by the police upon England's deciaring war, I cannot explain as everyone when living in Germany must supply the local police with his name, home address, nationality, age, etc. Further the other two Canadians had been arrested immediately. ## Safe Investments During War Times

One of the leading newspapers, speaking editorially concerning mortgages as security during the present war, expressed itself as follows .-

"The security (mortgages) in the vast majority of cases is as good as gold. It is the security of land, that is, of natural resources, backed by the energy of the man who is using the land. Many of these users are farmers who are to-day engaged in one of the greatest of patriotic services -raising food."

This is the sort of security Depositors and Debenture Holders have in an old established successtul Mortgage Loan Company like the MIDLAND LOAN AND SAVINGS COMPANY and which security the editorial referred to expresses "as good as gold."

Interest is paid at from 3 1/2% to 4 1/2%, depending upon the term. Information cheerfully given. THE Several men who were in camp at Valcartier with different regiments have been discharged by an order from the militia department, because they did not sail with the contingent. There are a number of reasons why the men did not sail. Some were over age, some medically unfit, and the wives of others would not sign their approval. The department is being severely criticised as a result of the dismissals. as the men do not consider it the straight thing to do.

When a man enlists in, say the R. C. H. A., he does so for three years and signs to do "general" service. The militia act reads that without the authority of the Canadian parliament the men be made to do overseas service. It is generally accepted, and in certain cases

Remains of Sir James Whitney Interred at Morrisburg.

MORRESTRG, Ont., Sept. 30 .-In a little old-fashioned cemetery on a hillside fronting a stretch of the St. Lawrence river, the body of the late Ontario statesman was buried Toronto and the above village, came late yeste day afternoon and a whole up for trial before County Magiscountryside turned out to do him reverence. A fitful rainstorm which had threatened all day gathered as ship granted the prisoner suspended the burial proceeded, and at the mosentence with certain conditions at ment when the mourners assembled about the grave, broke in a smart patter of drops. For ten minutes the congregation stood with bared heads as the last rites were read out. The body was then lowered into a vault in the Whitney family plot and the service was over.

There were not wanting instances during the day to show the regard which the province held for Sir James Whitney. At stations through which the special whirled on its way from Toronto to Morrisburg flags flew at half-mast, and at two or three of the larger towns small parties were permitted to view the remains. When the train reached Morrisburg the cortage proceeded at once to the little brownstone church erected within recent years by the Whitney Scores of people who had marshalled by a detachment from the local militia, doffed hats and bowed heads as the procession approached. The service then proceeded in the interior of the church.

was borne out through the portico and down the short road into the cemetery followed the immediate relatives of Sir James. Behind, walking two by two, came the Ontario Cabinet, and lengthening out in the rear, representatives of civil, legal and religious organizations, including coming from even the most northerly and westerly ridings to tender parting tokens of respect.

The Opposition in the House was represented by Mr. Rowell, Sam Clarke of Northumberland, D. Racine of Russell, and Hugh Munro of Glengarry.

The Federal Government sent the following Ministers: Hon. Messrs. W. T. White, Louis Coderre, Martin Burrell, Robt. Rogers, Frank Coch-rane, Thomas Crothers, A. E. Kemp

At 9.30 o'clock the body of the dead Premier was borne up the aisle of the cathedral. Behind it walked Master P. H. Thompson, grandson of the dead knight, Garnet M. Whitney, E. C. Whitney, Edgar Whitney, Richard Wagner, members of the Ontario Cabinet; Sir Henry Pellatt, representing the Governor-General, Sir John Gibson and his son, and then members of the Provincial Legislature, the Dominion House and the Toronto City Council.

At the conclusion of the service Bishop Sweeny offered prayer and then the congregation stood while the organist played the Dead March in Saul. in Saul.

The casket was carried to the doors followed by the honorary pallbearers: Hon. Dr. Pyne, Hon. Dr. Reaume, Hon. W. J. Hanna, Hon. Sir Adam Beck, Hon. Col. J. S. Hendrie, Hon. J. S. Duff, Hon. I. B. Lucas, Hon. W. H. Hearst and Hon. R. F. Presston.

Then the procession formed and the remains of Ontario's dead Pr-mier were taken to the special train which was to convey them to Morisburg.

PARTING MESSAGE HENDRIE MOVES UP

Minister of Militia Bids Farewell to Canadian Forces.

BRTAIN'S CAUSE IS JUST TO BE SWORN IN TO-DAY

Ol. Hughes Is Confident That Training at Valcartier Has Produced High Efficiency In the Canadian Contingent and He Is Sure the Men Will Give a Good Account of Themselves.

QUEBEC, Sept. 30. - The following is in part the farewell message isued in pamphlet form by Col. Sam Hughes to the Canadian contingent: "WHERE DUTY LEADS.
"Fellow Soldiers:—

"Sx weeks ago, when the call came to arms, inspired by that love of freedom from tyranny dominant in the British race; actuated by the knowledge that, under British constitutunal responsible government, you enjoyed the utmost of human liberty, you loyally and promptly re-sponded in overwhelming numbers to that call.

"Twenty-two thousand men were accepted by the Motherland. To-day with considerable surprise to the upwards of thirty-three thousand are members of the Ontario Cabinet. For en route to do duty on the historic fields of France, Belgium and Germany for the preservation of the British Empire and the rights and libertles of humanity. "Last of power; the subjugation of inoffensive and law-abiding neighbors; autocratic aggrandizement, have caused this war. In its cause the allies are guiltless.

"Belgium and Holland have long excited Prussian ambition for owner-Austria has desired extension towards the Euxine and Aegean Seas —insane lust of conquest bringing ruin, rapine and misery in the train. "It has been long predicted that when the Kiel Canal would be completed, Germany would begin the long-dreaded war. The Kiel Canal was completed early in July. War was begun before the end of that month. Germany was found absolutely ready and waiting. Great Britain, Belgium and France were unprepared. Three weeks elapsed before the regular armies of the latter countries could take the field.

"Soldiers! The world regards you as a marvel. Within six weeks you were at your homes, peaceful Cana-dian citizens. Since then your training camp has been secured; three and a half miles of rifle ranges—twice as long as any other in the world— were constructed; fences were remov-ed; water of the purest quality was laid in miles of pipes; drainage was laid in miles of pipes; drainage was perfected; electric light was installed, crops were harvested; roads and bridges were built; ordnance and army service corps buildings were erected; railway sidings were laid down; woods were cleared; sanitadown; woods were cleared; sanitation was perfected, so that illness was practically unknown, and thirty-three thousand men were assembled from points, some of them upwards of 4,000 miles apart. You have been perfected in rifle shooting, and to-day are as fine a body—officers and men are as nne a body—omcers and men—as ever faced a foe.

"That you will render a splendid account of yourselves for King and country is certain. You come of the right breed — English, Scotch, Irish, French, Welsh, German and American—your courage and stead-fastness are provential. In South fastness are proverbial. In South Africa, your presence was a guarantee of success. So in this most righteous struggle on the part of Britain. When side by side with soldiers from the Motherland stand the free men from the dominions beyond the seas; when Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Hindus, Newfoundlanders tread the soil of Europe then will the Prussian autocracy realize the gigantic power of liberty. And amid it all you will not forget that you war not on the innocent and lovely people of Germany. Your aim is the overthrow of tyranny and aggrandizement.

"Every man among you is a free will volunteer. No one has been inwited. No more typical army of free nen ever marched to meet an enemy. dity may call you, as to win the respect of the foe in the field; the admiration and regard of the good citizens of all lands in which your lot may be cast; and the love and respect to the special control of the special control o of those near and dear at home, is the conviction of all Canadians. "May success ever attend you and Rodolphe Boudreau, Clerk of Privy Council, Has Arrived In Toronto to Attend to Installation of Sir John Gibson's Successor In Office - Appointment Was Confirmed on Saturday.

TORONTO, Sept. 28. — Lieut.-Col. the Hon. John S. Hendrie, of Hamil-ton, is the new Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Sir John Morrison Gibson, whose term of office has expired. Col. Hendrie's appoint-ment was approved by the Governor-General at Valcartier on Saturday morning.

Rodolphe Boudreau, clerk of the Privy Council of Canada, arrived in Toronto yesterday in preparation for the swearing in of Col. Hendrie as Lieutenant-Governor.

It is understood that the announce-ment of the new appointment came some time it had been recognized that he was in line for the honor, but the appointment was not expected so early in view of the death of Sir James Whitney.

Hon. Dr. Pyne stated last evening that for the present, at least, Government affairs would be carried on as usual. He could not say whether a caucus of the legislative members was likely or not. Col. Hendrie's elevation to the post of Lieutenant-Governor causes another vacancy in the Ontario Cablenet, and discussion is active regarding his probable successor.

Lt.-Col. Hon. John Strathearn Hendrie, C.V.O., was born at Hamilton, Aug. 15, 1857. He was educated in the Hamilton Public Schools and at Upper Canada College.

He was first returned to the Pro-vincial Legislature at the general elections in 1902. He was re-elected in 1905, 1908, 1911 and 1914 For two years (1901-2) Col. Hendrie was mayor of Hamilton. In February, 1905, he was appointed Minister without portfolio in the Whitney Administration. He was created Commander of the Royal Victorian Order in Sep-tember, 1907. Two Cruisers Put Into Sebenico After Battle With Allied Fleets - One Russian Cruiser Is Sunk and Another Sinks German Cruiser and Two Torpedo Boats In Baltic-To Attack Cattaro

HARWICH, Sept. 24 .- It is now expected that the death-roll of the marine disaster in the North Sea, whereby the British cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue were sunk by the Germans, will reach about 1,400.

It is learned from the survivors that the whole affair was so brief that it seemed but a nightmare.

A survivor of the cruiser Aboukir, who was picked up after he had been in the water for four hours, is of the opinion that all the men between decks must have gone down with the

The steward who had been in charge of the canteen aboard the illfated cruiser Hogue, was first apprised of the accident by seeing the

Our crew lowered the boats immediately, when suddenly the Hogue received a blow that shook the ship from stem to stern. We saw the periscope of a submarine traveling very quickly through the water. In a moment the gun at our bow banged and the periscope disappeared. Within a quarter of an hour the Aboukir received another heavy blow. Soon the waves were washing over the men's feet and the captain shouted the order, 'Every man for himself!' Then with a rush the men began diving overboard.

From the water we saw the figure of the brave captain standing meditatively at the stern and a mighty cheer aross from the throats of all the men who saw him, those who were in the lifeboats and even those who were swimming.

"I swam for two hours before 1 could reach a boat. "wo were crossing my path in the water, but each was filled to overflowing with survivors, and there was no room for me I was on the point of giving up when another boat came along, and I was pulled into it to safety."

French To Attack Cattaro.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 24 .- The Minister of Marine announced yesterday that a French fleet has landed heavy guns and a detachment of gunzers at Antivari, Montenegro. The guns will be mounted on Mount Lovchen, whence they will open an energetic bombardment on the forts and harbors of Cattaro, in Dalmatia. The forts at the mouth of the Cattare harbor were destroyed some days ago by a bombardment carried out under the direction of Admiral de la Peyrere.

Austrian Ships Disabled. ROME, Sept. 24. - The Austrian armored cruiser Kaiserin Maria Theresa and the torpedo cruiser Admiral Spaun have put into Sebenico, a port in Dalmatia badly crippled. Th€ cruiser carries a complement of 502 men and has a tonnage displacement of 5,187 tons; the Admiral Spaun is of 3,500 tons displacement, with a crew of 320 men. Details of the engagement are not available.

Trawler Sunk By Mine. LONDON, Sept. 24 .- The Grimsby trawler Kilmornock was sunk by a mine in the North Sea Tuesday, Only three members of her crew were saved. The trawler was blown in two and went down immediately.

Russian Cruiser Sunk. PARIS, Sept. 24. - The Russian cruiser Dayan has been sunk in the Baltic Sea, near where a German cruiser and two torpedo boats were engaged in laying mines.

Germans Erect Barricades In Vicinity | absence of the censor. of Brussels.

ANTWERP, Sept. 24 .- The Germans at Ternath, south of Brussels, have felled 10,000 trees and prepared barricades, in which they have mounted guns directed toward Merchtem, with the object of preventing the Belgian troops from Antwerp falling upon them if the Germans retreating from France have to traverse Belglum. The entire German garrison at Brussels has left for the Ath and Ternath districts.

One thousand five hundred Germans arrived at Ath yesterday in some disorder, coming from France. The entire neighborhood of Brussels is entrenched and mined.

British Airmen Make Raid on Zeppe lin Sheds at Dusseldorf.

LONDON, Sept. 24 .- The Admiralty confirms the report of a raid on the Zeppelin shed at Dusseldorf in the following communication:

"Yesterday the British aeroplanes of the naval wing delivered an attack on the Zeppelin hed at Desseldorf (on the Rhine river, about forty miles north of Cologne). The conditions were rendered very difficult by the misty weather, but Flight Lieut. C. H. Collet dropped three bombs on the Zeppelin shed, approaching within 400 feet. The extent of the damage done is not known. Flight Lieut. Collet's machine was struck by one projectile, but all the machines returned safely to their point of de-

"The importance of this incident lies in the fact that it shows that in the event of further bombs being dropped into Antwerp or other Belgian towns, measures of reprisal can certainly be adopted if desired to almost any extent."

The aeroplanes flew from Antwerp to Dusseldorf, approximately a distance of 500 miles. The Zeppelin sheds on which they dropped bombs are those of the German aerial fleet, which would co-operate with the German navy in ease of an attempted raid-on Britain.

A despatch from Antwerp says that although Flight Lieut. Collet was forced to descend before reaching home, he landed safely in Belgium.

Another aeroplane section went in the direction of Cologne, but because thing.

LONDON, Sept. 24 .- The London Daily Telegraph in a despatch from its correspondent at the Belgian army headquarters says:

"Once more the gallant Belgian army is in the field. Several divisions emerged on Tuesday from the ramparts of Antwerp in a sortie against the German army corps based on Brussels. It is premature yet to give details of the 1 calities, but I may mention that with the mixed column of artillery, infantry and cavalry, I found myself yesterday well on the road to Brussels. All along the line the Belgians are in touch with the enemy, still holding much the same front - Melines, Tirlemont, Louvain -as during the last four days of battle, when large German forces were kept busy and prevented from reinforcing the army in France. The advance guard of the column which I accompanied exchanged shots with German outposts on the main road only thirteen miles from the capital. A despatch to the Central News from Antwerp says:

"Fifteen hundred Germans arrived this morning at Ath, 15 miles northwest of Mons, Belgium, coming from France. "The outskirts of Brussels have everywhere been mined and strongly entrenched. The entire German garrison has left for Ath, Tournai and the adjacent districts, where barricades also have been erected to prevent the Belgians falling on the Germans should the Germans be compelled to retreat from France."

INVASION PLOT FOUND.

Canada Objective of Scheme of Cincinnati Germ

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. - Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, late yesterday submitted to the State Department what he characterized as documentary evidence of a plan on the part of a number of German organizations in Cincinnati and vicinity to invade Canada. The Ambassador is serious in his statement that these plans must be investigated, frustrated, and punished by the United States Government. Immediate steps to ascertain the truth of the rumor will be taken by the State Department, it was announced.

Secretary Daniels has again deferred action in the case of the radio station at Siasconset, which he has threatened to close for a violation of neutrality. ## CONTINGENT ON WAY SIR JAMES PASSES Valcartier Camp Is Dwindling With Great Rapidity.

Quebec Marks Embarkation of Canadian Force for Europe-Work Progresses So Far that Col. Hughes Leaves for Ottawa-Transports Armed. VALCARTIER CAMP, Sept. 25 .-Canada's contingent is already on the way to the war. Admiral Wemyss has brought over a powerful fleet of British war vessels and collected others at convenient points to make doubly sure that no stray German ships have the slightest chance of doing damage or in any way impeding the passage of the transports. For days past there has been ample evidence here that the troops in camp have been preparing to move expeditiously so soon as the moment arrived. More than a week ago the ships at Quebec were taking on war stores and ever since then there has been a steady flow from the camp Quebecwards, and as the transports are loaded they steam seaward and pick up the British war vessels on the way, so that every little groups of transports is accompanied on this journey by a protecting force fully able to secure it against attack. Moreover, the transports are themselves armed with heavy guns.

Last night and yesterday the work here has been going forward ceaselessly, and as one rode in by car this morning from Quebec it was easy to see that in the camp itself there was a sensible diminution in numbers. Gone are many of the troops, gone are the artillery and much of the equipment, so much so that one could not but remark upon the comparative quiet after days of bustle and abnormal activity, and last night the Minister of Militia found himself free to go to Ottawa by the 8.30 train.

When seen yesterday afternoon by a correspondent, the Minister of Milltia was well pleased with the progress made, and especially was he delighted with the thoroughly efficient steps taken by the British Admiralty to secure the safety of the Canadian contingent on its way east.

of The Frankfurter Zeitung, published at Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, which has been received here, contains the following:-"War which destroys also opens a way to new creators. At all times mankind has regained courage to create new works stronger and more beautiful than those which had been destroyed.

"If the German armies in their victorious advance have had to hunt the enemy not only from the fortresses, but also from the ancient and sacred seats of civilization, we have at least one consolation, that a victory bought so dearly will eventually produce greater and more beautiful works than mediaeval churches towering to the sky."

BERLIN CLAIMS SUCCESSES. Bulletins Says Allies Have Been Beat-

Premier Whitney Succumbs to Cerebral Hemorrhage.

SAFE VOYAGE IS ASSURED HIS END WAS UNEXPECTED

Arrival of Admiral Wemyss Fleet at After Quiet Morning During Which He Seemed Better Than Previously Sir James Had Sudden Relapse -Funeral Will Be Held on Tuesday at Morrisburg, After Services In Toronto.

> TORONTO, Sept. 26. — Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, died at his home, 113 St. George street, at noon yesterday, following a cerebral hemorrhage. The attack was sudden and unexpected both by his medical advisors and those who have been in close touch with him for the past few weeks. The news of his passing came to his associates in the midst of a council session, with the same shock as to the province at large. Ten minutes after the word of his dangerous turn had been given to the Cabinet about the council board, one of the Ministers was in the room with him, but he was several minutes too late. There was no rally from the attack and no time granted either to summon friends or medical assistance. According to the statement of Hon.

Dr. Pyne, who sped across the park in a car at the reception of the news, the shock to friends and relatives was accentuated by the promising condition of Sir James' health earlier in the day. He had been apparently well in the morning and had taken breakfast as usual. Although he had shown a little restlessness, his condition was taken to be improving, and the impression grew that he might be walking about in a few days. It was the opinion of Dr. Pyne that the exertion caused by moving about his room after rising from bed hastened the end. Lady Whitney and Miss Whitney were with him during the last moments.

The Cabinet met in the afternoon, and acting in conjunction with immediate friends of the family, made arrangements for the funeral. It was decided that in view of the intense interest of the province in the Premier, the body should lie in state in the chamber of the Legislature on Monday. Here the public will feel free to enter and tender last tributes of respect. On Tuesday morning a special service will be held in St. James' Cathedral, where Sir James attended, and a special train will then convey the body to Morrisburg, where interment will be made in the family burial plot. The afternoon service will take place in the Whichey Memorial Church on the banks of the St. Lawrence. At the special request of the family floral tributes will not be sent. The news of the Premier's death spread throughout the city and province with amazing rapidity. Messengers scudding about the Parliament Buildings with unaccustomed celerity, the hasty despatch of telegrams and the lowering of the flag to halfmast, soon proclaimed the event in unmistakable fashion.

The first word of the illness which really lead to Sir James' death reached Toronto on Jan. 4, when he was on a health trip to Hot Springs. W. Va., and other places. Dr. Pyne wired that Sir James was seriously ill with heart disease, and then followed two weeks of life and death struggle until Jan. 19, when he rallied sufficiently to be rushed home to Toronto.

. The struggle continued in Toronto. Sir James continued to improve, and on March 9, very weak, but well again, he walked out of the General Hospital.

Sir James returned to the Parliament Buildings and took charge of the election campaign which he di-rected and in which he made one Lieutenant-Colonel the Honorable Sir James Pliny Whitney, Kt., K.C. M.G., LL.D., D.C.L., K.C., Prime Minister of the Province of Ontario, Canada, since 1905 and leader of the Conservative party in the Provincial House since 1895, was born in Williamsburg, Dundas County, Ontario, in 1843.

James Whitney spent the early boyhood of his life on a farm in the Township of Osnabrook, in Stormont County, and was educated in the local schools. He studied law with the late Sir John Sandfield Macdonald, Premier of the old Province of Canada before Confederation, and the first Provincial Premier of Ontario after Confederation.

Mr. Whitney was called to the Bar in 1876, and began the practice of his profession in Morrisburg. In 1886 he contested Dundas for the seat in the Ontario House, but was defeated by the small majority of 25. The successful candidate was unseated at the end of the session, and in the by-eelection which ensued on Jan. 31st. Legislature for the first time. From that time onward he has represented his home constituency in the Legislature, a period of some twenty-six years. In April, 1896, Mr. Whitney, on the retirement of Mr. Marter, was chosen leader of the party, then in Opposition, and through the long years of his side's minority in the House, he fought with undiminished vigor and determination. In 1902 he was granted the degree of LL.D. by Toronto University, the degree of D.C.L. by Trinity University of Toronto, and of LL.D. from Queen's University, of Kingston, in 1903. In 1866, at the age of 23, James Whitney volunteered for active service, and for a period of five months he took part in 'le campaign of re-sistance to the Fenian invasion. Throughout his subsequent career, he has been a consistent friend of the militia and an active member of the Dundas Reserve, of which division he ultimately became lieutenant-colonel.

On the defeat of the Ross Government in 1905, the Conservative party came into power in Ontario and the leader of the Opposition since 1896 became Premier, with a majority which gave him confidence and power. The Government was sustained in 1908, 1911 and 1914 with very large majorities.

On the occasion of the tercentenary of the founding of Quebec City. which was held in 1908, the present King, then Prince of Wales, conferred upon the Ontario Premier the title of knighthood. In 1913 he received the additional honor of K.C.M.G. at the hands of the Duke of Connaught. Governor-General. Outside of his political career, Sir James was always active in the service of the Church of England, to which he belonged.

TO CONCEAL RETREAT. Germans Are Guarding Their Line Across Belgium.

LONDON, Sept. 26. - The Ostend correspondent of Reuter's Telegram | Co. sent the following despatch:

"Forty thousand Germans have been encamped in the environs of Waterloo since Sunday, headquarters being established at Ruysbroeck. All passports to Mons are being refused by the German authorities at Brussels, the object apparently being to prevent travelers seeing the great amount of army transport which has already returned there from France. "The Germans have installed heavy siege guns at Grimberkhen and Mayse. To prevent the inhabitants of these places from reporting the fact, the men have all been shut up in a church and the women have been sent to Brussels. "As a consequence of the exhaustion of supplies in some classes of provisions, the German governor of Brussels has consented to Burgomaster Max going to Antwerp with the object of securing the consent of the Belgian Government for the despatch of grain and caitle to reprovision the city."

Ottawa Motor-Gun Corps Makes Good Impression at the Capital.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26 .- The automobile battery entrained for Quebec yesterday afternoon after motoring in the centre of the city, where they were viewed by large crowds of people and given an enthusiastic fare-The battery passed swiftly through the streets, and the impression made was one of deadly efficiency rather than of showy display. The 123 men, under Major Brutinet, all seem to be well selected, and the armored trucks, with the machine guns mounted on them, the ammunition wagons, the truck carrying the steel gasoline barrels, and the ambulance car had a distinctly warlike appearance.

The equipment for the battery was provided by Hon. Clifford Sifton, Sir Henry Egan, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, J. R. Booth, T. A. Hearn, W. Y. Soper and others.

French Officer Who Refused Support to Smith-Dorrien Executed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 .- The Evening Sun has received from Europe a most sensational statement in reference to an incident in the allies' campaign against the Germans which explains an incident in Gen. French's report hitherto obscure and puzzling. The information is as follows:-

"If you remember Gen. French's first long report, you may recall that he spoke of being at one time left entirely without the support that was due for the retirement of his force, Gen. Smith-Dorrien being left heavily engaged, absolutely on l'air. "A French general was shot for this, and Kitchener and Joffre agreed on it. The Frenchman had refused to open written orders sent by a junfor promoted over his head, or something of the kind. "This is not one of the yarns that

LONDON, Sept. 26. - A duel in the air over Brussels between a Belgian biplane which was making a reconnaissance, and a German machine, which was in pursuit of the biplane, is described briefly by a correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co., who witnessed the contest.

The two machines ascended to a great altitude, and after a swift flight the aviators exchanged shots at short range. Suddenly the German turned turtle and fell and the Belgian biplane returned towards Antwerp.

German Siege Guns Taken.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail says that in the burried retreat from Paris the Germans lost several of their big siege guns, with which they had intended to reduce the Paris forts. Owing to the rains they were left stuck fast in 'he mud. French sappers lave since been engaged in digging them out. They will be 1888. Whitney was elected to the brought back to the French base.

German Ship Struck Her Flag Then Slew Carmania's Men.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 25 .- Details of the sinking of the German steamer Cap Trafalgar by the British auxiliary cruiser Carmania several days ago were related by the sailors of the British vessel, which arrived here yesterday. The battle took place at a point 300 miles off Rio Janeiro, Brazil, and lasted two hours. The Cap Trafalgar lowered her flag as if to surrender, whereupon a yawl filled with sailors put out from the Carmania to take possession o the German vessel. The Cap Trafalgar, however, suddenly opened fire upon the yawl, which sank, the sailors in the boat perishing. The Carmania, whose officers were angered by the act of the Cap Trafalgar, opened fire and sank the German vessel. The British boat then continued on her "oyage. In announcing the sinking of the Cap Trafalgar, the British Official Press Bureau on Sept. 20 added that the Carmania lost nine men killed and that twenty-six were wounded.

NO TIME FOR PEACE.

The New York Herald says that it is impossible for Germany to use the United States as a "Cat's Paw" to pull her war chesnuts out of the European fire, by talking about peace at this stage of the fight. "Hasty peace," it declares, "would be worse than war." Much as war is to be regretted, and peace desired, this is not the time to talk or think about such a termination to the bullying aggressions, barbarities and vandalism of the German Kaiser. The sacking of cities, the wanton destruction of property, the cruelties imposed on non-combatants, the killing of Red Cross nurses, and the rivers of human blood which have been created by this fiendish ego-mad Emperor must be compensated for. Money out of the German treasury will hardly pay the bill. The Rhine must be crossed, the pride of this mad monarch humbled in the dust and he and his Potsdam butcher advisers must be made to eat Crow from the hand of the Allies, and for the rest of their days sit in sackcloth and ashes-the ashes of the historic seats they have reduced and wiped out forever.

Peace will come, but let us not be too hasty over its advent. Even brave Belgium, despite all she has suffered, does not ask for peace, despite that the Germans offered her the restitution of all her territory. German Forces Are Driven Back Near St. Quentin.

COMMUNICATIONS IN PERIL

French and British Troops With Turcos and Moors Hold Their End of the Great Battle of the Aisne and Finally Make Germans Fall Back-Dogged Fighting Continues Along Line.

AT THE BATTLEFRONT, Sept. 26. -(Via Paris.)-French and British troops, intermingled with Turcos and Moors, not only held their own, but caused the strongly reinforced German western wing to reel backwards near St. Quentin Thursday and yesterday and imperilled the German line of communications towards the frontier of Belgium.

The German centre had been weakened by the rush of troops from that position to meet the threatening movement of the allies, and two strong forces were engaged at close quarters yesterday between St. Quentin and Tergnier.

The military authorities naturally refuse to permit the disclosure of the exact position of the fighting, but it is generally know; that the battle now progressing is of prime import-

Meanwhile at other parts of the battle line, which is about 120 miles long, fighting continued yesterday in dogged fashion. The allied troops followed the example set by the Germans and dug the nselves deeply in

The artillery of both armies kept up an incessant fire with French and German aviators reconnoitring.

The official communication issued at 11 o'clock last night, regarding the progress of the battle in northern France, says that yesterday morning French troops in the region of Noyon were compelled to give ground before superior forces, but, having been re-inforced, again assumed the offensive, the engagement being one of particu-

The text of the statement follows: "First-On our left wing, in the region to the northwest of Noyon, our advanced troops having come in contact with superior forces of the enemy, were compelled yesterday morning to give a little ground. Being reinforced, however, by fresh troops, these troops have vigorously resumed the offensive. The struggle in this region has taken on a character of extreme violence.

"Second—In the centre there is nothing new to report.

"Third—On our right wing the en-emy has begun to give way before the attacks of our troops coming from the direction of Nancy and Toul. "In the southern region of Woevre the enemy is retiring towards Rupt de Mad (in Meurthe-et-Moselle). The British officers relate an incident which, they say, occurred during twi-light Thursday evening. A large force of German infantry, when surrounded by a British battalion, held up their hands in token of surrender. The British approached to take them prisoners, when, it is said, the Germans reopened fire. The British officers ordered their men to lie down, which they did. Then three British machine guns were brought into ac-tion and killed every German in that portion of the field.

A message from Basle states that despatch from various German railway centres announce a sudden general movement of concentration toward the Luxemburg frontier of countless empty transport trains. It is believed that the instant the retreating German army reaches the border Germany intends transporting all the first line of troops to Russia without giving the allies final battle. Only a sufficient number of men of the second line will be left to defend the country against invasion by the French and British.

Cathedral Again Bombarded.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 26 .- An official statement issued yesterday afternoon says that the German artillery resumed the bombardment of the Rheims Cathedral Thursday night. According to the latest information from Rheims the four walls of the Rheims Cathedral, as well as the towers, are still standing, while the roof and have are only partly injured.

French Bombs Release Turpinite Which Kills Everything by Fumes. LONDON, Sept. 26. — Remarkable tales of novel engines of war are appearing in all parts of Europe, but nothing has yet equalled the reports circulated concerning new guns used by the French in firing turpinite, a substance said to produce instantaneous and painless death for every living thing within its reach. Although it is so deadly in its work turpinite cannot be objected to on the ground that it violates humane principles of war. In fact, it is so humane that it must not be confused with lyddite and other explosives which have deadly fumes.

CAPTAINS BLAMED

Attempted Rescue Was Ruin of Hogue and Cressy.

SHOULD HAVE KEPT AWAY

Statement From Admiralty Advices Public That In Future Battleships Will Be Forbidden to Engage In Works of Rescue, Which Are Likely to Imperial Their

Safety and That of Crews.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — The facts concerning the sinking of the British cruisers Aboukir, Hogue and Cressy by a German submarine or submarines in the North Sea, with a loss of nearly 60 officers and 1,400 men, are contained in an Admiralty statement issued last night."

The reports show that the greatest discipline was maintained, and that acts of heroism were performed, but the Admiralty has established the rules that such affairs must be governed by the same laws as prevail in naval action, and that disabled ships must be left to their own resources rather than that other ships should be jeopardized by rescue work.
"The natural promptings of humanity have in this case led to heavy losses which would have been avoided by strict adherence to military considerations," says the statement, "Modern naval war is presenting us with so many new and strange situations that an error of judgment of this character is pardonable. But it has been necessary to point out for the further guidance of his Majesty's ships that conditions which prevail when a vessel of a squadron is in-jured in a mine field, or is exposed to submarine attack, are analogous to those which occur in action, and that the rule of leaving disabled ships to their own resources is applicable, so far, at any rate, as their own vessels are concerned. No act of mercy, either to friend or foe, should lead to neglect of the proper precautions and dispositions of war, and no measures should be taken to save life which prejudice the military situation. Small craft of all kinds should, however, be directed by wireless to close on the damaged ship at all speed."

"The duty on which these vessels were engaged was an essential part of the arrangement by which the control of the seas and the safety of the country are maintained, and, the lives lost are as usefully, as necessarily and as gloriously devoted to the requirements of his Majesty's service as if the loss had been incurred in a general action.

"In view of the certainty of a proportion of misfortunes of this character occurring from time to time it is important that this point of view should be thoroughly appreciated. The loss of these cruisers, apart from the loss of life, is of small naval significance. Although they were large and powerful ships, they belonged to a class of cruisers whose speed has been surpassed by many of the enemy's battleships.

"Before the war it had been decided that no more money should be spent in repairing any of this class, and that they should make their way to the sale list as soon as defects be-came manifest."

Germany's "Paris" Equipment Doing Duty In Battle of Aisne.

LONDON, Sept. 25 .- The official commander of the 50th Regt. Vic-toria, B.C.; Lt.-Col. J. E, Cohoe, com-french's headquarters, supplement-

"Our progress, although slow on account of the strength of the defensive positions against which we are pressing, has in certain directions been continuous, but the present battle may well last for some days before a decision is reached, since it now approximates somewhat to siege

"The Germans are making use of searchlights. This fact, coupled with their great strength in heavy artillery, lerds to the supposition that they are employing material which may have been collected for the siege of Paris."

He then recounts the events of the past few days and says the Germans have adoptde the illegal ruse of driving French prisoners before them when they attack. They are also misusing the white flag and the Red Cross arm brassards. "That irregular use of the protection afforded by the Geneva conven-tion is not uncommon is confirmed by the fact that on one occasion men in the uniform of combatant units have been captured wearing a Red Cross brassard, hastily slipped over the arm. The excuse given has been that they had been detailed after the fight to look after the wounded.

SECRET OF THE LOVE BIRD

It May Be Discovered In the Milk of Human Kindness. Everything else dwindles into insignificance when the love bird appears. Affection, devotion, tenderness and love burst gladly forth at her magic The road to happiness is attained through the generous distribution of the milk of human kindness.

Success, achievement, wealth, prominence, are only worth while when skared by your friends. No matter how large you can spell "success," it gives you little satisfaction if your accomplishment is not sincerely enjoyed by many. When surrounded by friends and loved ones, if you are fortunate in the acquisition of a generous disposition and charming personality, what a joy it is to be able to give them cheer, mfort, pleasure and satisfaction!

Who does not feel better for the "God bless you" from an old lady to whom you have shown some trifling kindly attention? Who is not thrilled by the joyous barking of his dog upon returning home?

Fortunate are those who feel the bear the baby's laugh and see the wonderful mites toddling toward them, happy and unafraid.

All these joys sink into insignificance when the one and only one looks into your eyes, tender, true, steadfast, Words need not be spoken; nothing else matters. Then, and not until then, will you know the excess of happiness, the full realization of love, and then is the time to unite yourself steads fastly to fidelity, magnanimous gene erosity and open heartedness to all,

SURGICAL SHOCK.

Only In a Vague Way Does Science Know What Causes It.

Shock is still one of the great mysteries of surgery. Many theories have been put forward to explain just what it is. Each of these has seemed at tractive until its inherent defects were discovered by experience. In a lecture before the British Royal College of Surgery Dr. A. Rendle Short reviewed these successive theories and described the experiments of himself and others by which they were disproved. But researches by Dr. Crile of Cleveland, Professor Shere rington of England and Dr. F. H. Pike of Columbia university, New York, seemed to him to offer at least a clew to the real nature of shock.

Professor Short did not formulate definite theory, but suggested that surgical shock was due to an inhibiting or paralyzing of the important nuclei in the region of the fourth ventricle of the brain and perhaps in the cere bellum. These are "continually sending impulses down the spinal cord, maintaining its functional activity and increasing muscular tone." The effect of this paralysis is to cut off these impulses, whereupon the functions of the spinal cord are greatly reduced. muscular tone is abolished, and as a secondary result the blood pressure may fall. The respiratory center and perhaps also the vasomotor center share in this inhibition or paralysis.
"Death," said Dr. Short, "is due to the accumulation of blood in the great veins," so that the flow does not provide a proper filling for the heart-New York World.

Candid Criticism.
